

Stay at Home Tea

in conjunction with National Literacy Month

Did you know?

19,000+ adults in our community don't speak English well or at all.

These adults and their families face many challenges. But, by learning English, they're able to get better paying jobs, better support their children's education, better engage in our community and more.

The need for adult English as a Second Language instruction in our community is great. For more than 25 years, RALC has made addressing this need our mission. This year we served 522 adults who, together, spent more than 17,000 hours learning English. (This was our fifth year in a row to serve more than 500 students.)

Link to Literacy

Your financial support is critical to our ability to teach English to these adults.

During National Literacy Month, we invite you to link to literacy. Brew a cup of tea, curl up with a good book and support adult English language learners. Your support will allow RALC to continue providing English classes that empower adults and enrich our community.
